When the war began the German soldiers marched forth gallily, to the tune of "Every little movement has a meaning all its own." Before the end they must have thought the allies had a hell of a meaning.

STERLING HERRON Wounded In France.

Mrs. Luther Herron has just received a letter from her son, Sterling dated November 5th, in which he states that he was wounded while going "over the top" on November 1st. He is now in a Red Cross hospital and receiving every attention and says the wound is not serious. Sterling is in the Marines and took active part in the battle of Chateau-Thierry. He writes a splendid letter and we hope to publish it in our next issue.

SUDDEN DEATH. Miss Ledford Dies In Louisville.

Paint Lick—While on a visit to Louisville last Sunday, Miss Marion Ledford, was stricken with acute indigestion, from which she died about one hour later. She had eaten some oysters and complained immediately of feeling ill and while going to the train fell on the street. She was taken to the Hospital and had every medical attention available but they could not save her. She was about 28 years old, a devoted member of the Christian church and was very popular in the community. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ledford, who lost their lives in a railroad accident last June. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. L. B. Shepherd and five brothers, Messrs. Burnham, Speed, Asher, James and Noble, the latter now stationed at Camp Meade, Md. The remains were laid to rest Tuesday afternoon in the Old Paint Lick cemetery.

Shelby Jett happened to quite a serious and painful accident last Monday while out hunting. His gun was accidentally discharged, while getting over a fence, mangle his fingers badly, while some of the shot entered his body. He was removed to the Berea Hospital where two fingers were removed from his right hand. He is now recovering and is thought to be in no danger.

TWO MORE GARRARD BOYS On Honor Roll.

Although hostilities have ceased and Government clerks are busy clearing up the casualty lists and daily the grim realities of war come home to the soldiers dear one's. During the last few days two homes here have been saddened by the distressing news through the War Department, that two more Garrard county boys have fallen on the field of honor. Last Wednesday, Mr. James H. Naylor received through the Department at Washington, the sad news of the death of his son, Corporal Liburn Naylor, who was with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. His death occurred October 13th, due to pneumonia.

He left Lancaster for Camp Taylor on February 25th, 1918 and after several months training, was prepared for foreign service and embarked for France about the first of last August. After his arrival there he wrote several interesting letters to his father and friends at home telling them how well he was enjoying the soldier life.

He was a fine young man and was exceedingly anxious to get into the service. He was twenty-six years old last April. Beside his father he leaves three brothers, James, Jr., Bradford and Cassy Naylor and three sisters, Miss Stella Naylor and Mrs. Pattie Eason, of this county and Miss May Naylor, of Kamargo, Ill. His family have the deepest sympathy of the community.

Last Saturday night the distressing news came to Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Young who lives on Creamery street, that their son, Fred had been killed in action on October 25th. He was only nineteen years old when he enlisted in June 1917, in the regular army, being a member of Company F-4th Infantry. The last letter received from him was dated September 20th, in which he wrote that he was well and right in the thick of the battles.

In our issue of September 5th, we published a letter from him, written to his mother, in which he said: "I have just gotten back from the front for a few days rest, which I need for I have lost so much sleep." He mentioned in this letter that his dear friend Frank Jesse, of Danville, was killed by his side. Fred was the idol of his devoted parents and it was some time before they would give their consent for him to enlist being so young. This is the first death in the family of ten children. At the home a service flag hangs in the window with the single star of red, which now has turned to gold, a memorial to a brave and patriotic son who has given his life, that we and others may live in peace.

KENTUCKY LIVE STOCK SALES CO. Have Auspicious Opening.

Cattle Sell Well Court Day.

A large crowd of buyers were at the opening sale of the Kentucky Live Stock Sales Company at their stock yards on Stanford street, on County Court day. There were over four hundred head of cattle changed hands and some of the bunches changed hands several times.

This company not only helps you make private sales but also sells your stock at auction the seller reserving the right to reject any offer and only paying commission in event he confirms the sale.

The stock pens have been overhauled, thoroughly cleaned, the scales put in first-class shape, in fact as the manager, Mr. J. S. Haselden tells us, it is their intention to make this one of the best live stock markets in Central Kentucky, and that they will build new pens and other equipment as necessary to take care of the trade.

Plenty of feed is kept at all times plenty of good water as the city is now installing water in the yards, the pens well lighted and a good warm fire in the office and no extra charges made for weighing. In fact as Mr. Haselden says they are equipping the yards so that traders from a distance will be assured of a good warm place to stay and a hearty welcome.

As example of some of the sales a bunch sold by J. M. Cress at auction to Joe Aldridge, averaged eleven and one-half cents per pound. A yearling bull at auction sold by V. A. Lear brought $46.00 another $40.00.

Captain W. H. Davis, the live stock auctioneer was on the job and kept the crowd in good humor all during the sale and to one on the outside would have thought there was a show on in place of stock sales in as much as there was so much laughter and good feeling.

This company will advertise your stock free for you and should you have stock to sell we heartily advise that you write them as it will not only be advertised at home but all through Central Kentucky, assuring the seller that he will always find a good bunch of buyers ready for his stock. Watch this paper for a list of stock to be sold next Court day. The merchants and business men of Lancaster are very much interested in the success of this Company and knowing them as the editor does we unhesitatingly recommend them to any buyer or seller as high class business men and you will be assured of fair treatment whether buyer or seller. Come to their sales and bring your stock and let us build a market in Lancaster that will equal if not surpass its old reputation of being the best live stock market in Central Kentucky.

Violations Will Be Reported.

The State Board of Health has issued an order forcing all persons suffering from influenza and other communicable diseases to remain in for ten days after recovery. Any who violate this order will be reported and prosecuted, it is officially announced.

Boys To Return Home In Groups.

Reclassifying of all men at Camp Zachary Taylor who are to be discharged, so that they will be let out of the service according to the location of their residences, is necessitated by telegrams received from Washington at Camp Zachary Taylor headquarters. These telegrams direct that when men are discharged the camp officials are to co-operate with railroad traffic authorities, so that the soldiers are returned to their homes in much the same manner as they came to camp. The purpose is to send the men in groups, thus preventing straggling. The men from each locality will be assembled and sent away on a single train.

The men will wear their uniform home, and are privileged to wear the uniforms for ninety days following their discharge.

Will Take No Chances.

Navy officials said today that President Wilson and the American delegation to the peace conference will cross the Atlantic on a big army transport convoyed by dreadnoughts and a destroyer flotilla. "We are from Missouri" for many years to come when times are taking the word of that bunch of Germans "over there."

ALL TOBACCO BUYERS Will Not Be On Market Before January 1st

To the farmers of Garrard county: We are in receipt of the following letter from one of the largest tobacco buyers, The J. P. Taylor Company, which is self explanatory:

"All North Carolina and Virginia Bright tobacco markets were closed continuously for five weeks in the midst of the season on account of the influenza epidemic and prior to that time they had been partially closed several times on account of the scarcity of labors and buyers. Every one of the large companies, including the Taylor Company, have been called on by the Government to give up a good many of their buyers to the Colors and those buyers have not yet been released, consequently every Kentucky buyer who knew anything about Bright tobacco is now located on the Bright tobacco markets and the very best that we can hope is to wind up a sufficient number of the Bright markets by the end of the year to enable us to move the buyers to Kentucky and start at the beginning of the new year. Some of the companies think they can hardly start by that time, but we have urged all of them to agree to put their buyers on the market by January 1st, so as to give the Kentucky farmers a good market from the beginning and on the other hand, we have urged the Kentucky warehousemen and farmers to make themselves satisfied with the opening of their markets, say, January 1st.

We can not possibly start our buyers in Kentucky before the first of the year and although Lexington is advertising the opening December 3rd, they have already made us the proposition to decide on a compromise date of December 30th, which will give them two days earlier opening than we have asked for. This December 30th, opening we have not yet agreed to, but we are not at all arbitrary in our decision and will notify the Lexington market in less than a week whether or not it will be possible to meet their ideas to the extent of starting our buyers Dec 30th. Of course it is possible to get somebody to bid on your tobacco before January 1st, or December 30th, as the case may be, but you are obliged to know that with the larger buyers unable to be represented before then it will create dissatisfaction among the Kentucky farmers and cause unfavorable comment from the papers, the banks, etc.

We hope very much that the Richmond market will yield gracefully to a situation that cannot be helped and which is caused entirely by the war and the influenza and that it will co-operate with the buyers to the extent of opening the market only when the buyers can be represented."

Yours very truly,
J. P. Taylor Company, Inc.

Our "tired business man" has not time to take of the pronouncing glossaries of the magazines which his wife devours. So when his kind meet on the street corners to unfold their morning papers and discuss the latest from France, it is a time of confusion of tongues.

Below are some of the names that bob up so persistently in the news columns so adapted for our palates; Chateau-Thierry (Sha-to Tee-er-ree.) Foch (Fo-sh.) Poincare (Pwan-ka-ray) Metz (Mess.) Sedan (Se-dong.) Verdun (Vair-dung) Joffre (Zho-fr.) Clemenceau (Clay-mong-so) Petain (Pe-tang).

With one accord let us all agree to pronounce "armistice" with the accent on the first syllable.

Hall.

On last Sunday afternoon, November 17th, at two o'clock, the death Angel entered the home of Mr. Abrahall and called to higher service, his wife, Liza Hall, age 18 years and five months. They were only married nine months and four days. She was ill nine days with Spanish influenza.

The last few years before her marriage, she was student of Berea College, a place she filled with faithfulness and duty, well performed. While there she added scores of friends to her loyal host truly, "to know her was to love her—Her motto—was others. She was never happier than when serving her friends or rendering service where ever needed. Her cheery happy life will make her loss keenly felt. In early life she joined the Baptist church and lived a constant member. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, her parents, five sisters and two brothers. After services at the grave her body was laid peacefully to rest in Old Stringtown cemetery. (Mrs. D. R.)

Then and Now.
"Thirty years ago," said the man who had traveled to the end of the earth and most of the way back, "I started out, alone, unaided, without friends to help me along, with the intention of making the world pay me the living that it owes me. My only allies were a dollar bill and a determination to make a million more. Today (and he threw out his chest proudly) I still have the determination and fifty cents in change."

Teaching Canaries to Sing Tune.
Canaries may be taught to sing a tune, such as, "A Life on the Ocean Wave," by repeatedly singing to them in falsetto, or even to speak a few words. Once in a while (though rarely) a female canary turns out a fine singer.

Easy to Recognize.
Helen, four years old, went to the movies and was much interested in the war pictures. When the statue of Liberty was projected on the screen, she exclaimed: "I can allus tell the Goddess of Liberty, 'cause she has an ice cream cone in her hand."

Prison Pathos.
If you never heard a prisoner say, "I want to go home," there are infinite depths of pathos to which you are a total stranger.—Leavenworth News Era.

THE WAY OF A GIRL

By MISS JEANNE M. BLACK.

"Helen, I wonder who that distinguished-looking stranger can be who passes here so persistently every few hours in that gray roadster," said Mrs. Burk as she peered from between the curtains of the parlor window.

Helen blushed furiously and turned a conscious face to her mother. "Oh, yes, mamsey, I forgot to tell you about him. He is a guest at the tavern. I call him my Prince Charming," said Helen, laughing. "His name is Leroy Talmage. They say he made loads of money in Kalamazoo, Timbuctoo or some outlandish place, and came back to civilization to spend it. Then came the war. He has been to France and incidentally covered himself with glory and medals. He wears the military cross and the Legion of Honor upon his breast and looks like a man who really counts," finished the girl with sparkling eyes.

"But what brings such an amazing person to our secluded village? What is the attraction?" asked Mrs. Burk. "Oh, rest and scenery, I suppose; he is on leave for convalescence. He calls these bald old mountains and rocky pastures 'exquisite,' 'a valley of dreams' and one of 'God's beauty spots.' I must say I don't admire his taste; give me the flesh-pots and bright lights. I care not how beautiful it be, if it be not beautiful to me," sang the happy girl as she pinned on her sun hat and gathering up a tin pail and lunch basket, she opened the door to the wind-blown morning.

"Bye-bye, mamsey, I'm off. I'll take the Marsh baby along for company and give poor Mrs. Marsh a chance to get her jelly made. Baby can roll in the clover while I pick berries." "Well," thought Helen, with a giggle, as she tripped gaily away, "that's the time I put one over on mother. If she dreamed that her unsophisticated little daughter had actually flirted with the handsome stranger, I tremble to think what would happen to little me. But I should worry, everybody talks to soldiers these days."

Within half an hour, the Marsh baby, a plump and white morsel in rompers, was stumbling among the clover on unsteady legs, picking the "plitty-pitties" while Helen picked berries in the pasture on the other side of a rail fence. Suddenly the silence of the summer morning was broken by the low-toned honk-honk of a motor car, and a familiar gray roadster of aristocratic lines came purring along the road and ground to a stop opposite the busy berry picker. A transformed Helen nodded a gay "good morning." Leroy Talmage climbed from behind the steering wheel and with one leap was over the low stone wall, and with widening eyes stood looking down at baby Marsh. "Da da," gurgled the infant, lifting entreating blue eyes and chubby arms. "You rascal," and the tall military man caught the child up, held him aloft, then cuddled the little creature in his strong arms. The rose-leaf mouth was pressed to his bronzed cheek and the busy fingers played with the military cross.

"Why, baby Marsh, you are altogether too familiar," scolded Helen. "He calls every man he sees 'Dada,'" explained the girl, with a bright blush. "His father is in France and he naturally misses him."

"Don't apologize for baby, Mrs.—er—Marsh; let me play with him. I am very fond of children."

When luncheon was over, the man sat quietly smoking and watching the girl with the sleeping child resting against her knee.

"Mrs. Marsh," he began, "I was amazed to find that you were a married woman." After a tense silence he added earnestly: "Would it interest you to know that I have never been in love—not the real thing?" Another silence. The girl stirred restlessly. The man went on huskily: "When I first saw you tripping along your quaint village streets, in your simple white gown and rose-wreathed hat, with your Red Cross bag on your arm—well, I knew I had reached a turning point in my life—that's all. I hope you will not think this confession impertinent. I am not in the habit of making love to other men's wives, and I hope you'll forgive me."

The girl sat with demure, downcast eyes, twining the child's stilk curls about her finger. Suddenly she sprang to her feet with an exclamation: "Quick, it is raining; a big drop splashed on baby's nose; we will get soaked. Mr. Talmadge, will you kindly motor us home?"

Ten minutes later they pulled up before Burk cottage. Helen turned a roguish face to her companion. "May I trouble you to drive up the street a block further? I must return baby Marsh to his mother. He was borrowed only for the day. And I would like to introduce myself. My name is Miss Helen Burk."

"Then you are not married?" exclaimed the man, and he turned a transformed face to the girl.

"Not that I know of," returned Helen, with a glance that meant much. "Won't you forgive me, Mr. Talmadge?" she said, trembling with emotion.

"I'll think it over, sweetheart. It is a small thing to forgive, when the ending is so wonderful." She looked up at him sweetly. "There's a big life ahead of us, dear." His hand closed over hers in sudden tension. (Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

IT'S NOT YOUR HEART

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. A majority of the ill-afflicting people today can be traced back to kidney trouble. The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters, the purifiers, of your blood. Kidney disease is usually indicated by weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gall stones, gravel, rheumatism, sciatica and indigestion. All these derangements are nature's signals to warn you that the kidneys need help. You should use GOLD MEDAL Brand, Haarm Oil Capsules immediately. The soothing, healing oil stimulates the kidneys, relieves inflammation and destroys the germs which have caused it. Do not wait until tomorrow. Go to your druggist today and insist on GOLD MEDAL Haarm Oil Capsules. In twenty-four hours you should feel health and vigor returning and still bless the day you first heard of GOLD MEDAL Haarm Oil. After you feel that you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two capsules each day, so as to keep in first-class condition and ward off the danger of other attacks. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL Brand. Three sizes. Money refunded if they do not help you.

Intelligent Maine Dog.

A Gardner (Me.) dog was caught on the trestle over the new Maine Central viaduct and could not reach the end ahead of the fast-moving train. Being afraid to jump off because of the distance to the ground, the dog tropped his body over one of the sleepers, letting his head and legs hang between the sleepers. The engine and its cars passed along and then doggie jerked up one ear, found the coast was clear and calmly finished his journey home.

Ideal Union.

What greater thing is there for two human souls, than to feel that they are joined for life—to strengthen each other in all labor, to rest in each other in all sorrow, to minister to each other in all pain, to be one with each other in silent, unspeakable memories at the moment of the last parting?—George Eliot.

Fearless.

A man who makes $15 a week has been advised by a writer that he can marry and get along, providing he has saved up a fund. That sounds reasonable. A man who can save a fund out of a $15-a-week salary has nothing to fear from marriage or anything else.—Kansas City Star.

Justice Leads to Love.

Do justice to your brother (you cut to that, whether you love him or not), and you will come to love him.—Ruskin.

Translated into English.

All books of the Old Testament apocrypha, 14 in number, have been translated into English, and are included as apocryphal books in some editions of the Bible. They were formerly printed under a distinctive heading between the Old and the New Testaments, and in that form can still be found in many old family Bibles. They are always included in the so-called Septuagint, a version of the Bible used by the Greek church.

Tests Straw.

Experiments have recently been carried out in two Scottish mills for the purpose of determining the yield and of testing the utility of straw pulp. Both wheat and oat straw were tested, and fairly satisfactory results were obtained. A yield of pulp was obtained from oat straw equal to 35 per cent of the weight of bone-dry straw. There is said to be a surplus production of 420,000 tons of straw in Scotland alone.

Sang Praises of Heroes.

According to classic mythology Clio was the goddess who sang of glorious actions, bestowing her praise on heroes. An ancient statue represents her as a beautiful woman with a roll of manuscript and the trumpet of fame in her hand, as if recording and spreading the fame of heroes.

How It Is Done.

PAINT LICK, KENTUCKY.

To The Tobacco Growers Of Madison, Garrard and Ad- joining Counties:

As our policy has always been to look after the interest of the growers, and get them the high dollar for their tobacco, we have been unable to announce our opening sale, on account of the influenza prevalent in the South. We were however, advised by the big tobacco purchasing companies that as soon as they get buyers to the Lexington market, we would have them here on the same day.

Remember the HOME HOUSE has never speculated in one pound of tobacco. We do a strictly commission business. We are for the grower first, last and all the time.

We have doubled our floor space and can now unload your tobacco the same day you come. We also have two of the largest buyers prizing on our floors.

We will announce our opening date as soon as the big companies can get through in the South. Don't be misled into taking your tobacco to a market where it will be sacrificed. For we know we will have buyers on the same day that Lexington or any other market in the state.

Hoping that none of the growers will be misled about the opening, or in thinking they will have a market at Lexington, or some other point, before ours, we remain,

Very truly yours,

THE HOME HOUSE,

Mrs. Fanny Pollard has recovered from a sick spell.

Rev. J. W. Mahan preached a good sermon Sunday, on "character building", the second one since the "flu" ban has been lifted.

The old custom of the Fork church observing Thanksgiving which has been dormant for a few years will be revived and services will be held at ten o'clock Thursday morning. Some of the members think it especially fitting at this time.

Rev. Sebastian spent Saturday night with Rev. J. W. Mahan. Mr.
Sebastian was on his way to fill an appointment with his Mt. Hebron church when his car balked right in front of the parsonage door and refused to budge any further.

Weak Backs Made Strong By Taking Vin Hepatica

You so often get weak in the back, listless, and all rundown this time of year. Ten to one it is because your kidneys are not working right. They are the filtering plant of your body.
And when they get out of fix, you're out of fix.

What you want to do at once, is to come in and get a bottle of Vin He-patica for thoroughly cleaning out your kidneys, stomach, liver and bowels. It goes at once to the seat of the trouble, tones you up, strengthens your back, and makes you feel like a new person.

Good Reasons for Talking.
John talked continually, so one day his mother losing patience said: "I do wish you would keep still. What makes you talk so much all the time?"
He answered quickly: "It's got to talk so I won't forget what I think."

Trench-Digging Crab.
One of the creatures most adroit at ministry is the fiddler crab. This curious creature is an expert in trench digging. He carries with him, as part of his body, an extraordinary weapon which serves as spade, sword and spoon. This is an enlargement of one claw shaped so much like a fiddle that it gives the crab its name.

Cold-Water Cure.
If our eyes are in good order we may keep them so by opening them under cold water every morning when we wash; but cold water is for strong eyes; weak ones should use it tepid with a little boracic powder dissolved therein. Keep your boracic solution ready mixed in a bottle, then you won't have to make it up every day.

It Is Serious.

Some Lancaster People Fail to Realize the Seriousness of a Bad Back.
The constant aching of a bad back,
The weariness, the tired feeling,
The pains and aches of kidney ills
May result seriously if neglected.
Dangerous urinary troubles often follow.

A Lancaster citizen shows you what to do.

Farker Jenkins, stationary engineer, Water Works road, Lancaster, says:—"My work calls for a lot of stooping over and this caused my kidneys to get out of fix. I had dull pains across my back and loins. My kidneys acted too frequently and then again were sluggish and the secretions contained a brickdust-like sediment. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I bought at R. E. Mc-Robert's Pharmacy. The backache left me and my kidneys became healthy."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Jenkins had. Foster-Milburn

Another Paradox.

"I have noticed in my little journey from bedtime to bedtime," said the almost philosopher, "that the fellow who pines himself on being blind in his speech can ask some very pointed questions."

Liberty Before All Things.

Blatishments will not fascinate us nor will threats of a halter intimidate us; for, under God, we are determined that, whatsoever, whenever or how-soever we shall be called to make our exit, we will die free men.—Josiah Gulber.

Long Wars of the Past.

A review of history shows that of the most momentous clashes of arms have resulted in long wars. In the middle ages England waged an intermittent conflict with France known as the Hundred Years war; while the corresponding conflict between England and Scotland may be said to have been a five-century one.

No Crime to Stifle Yawn.

The office boy says he has no record of any law having been enacted making it a crime to stifle a yawn. Yet may have in mind the case of Macbeth, who, as you will recall, created a sensation in the newspapers of his time by murdering sleep.—Indianapolis Star.

Daily Thought.

The only cure for grief is action.—
George Henry Lewes.

Forgiveness.

The brave only know how to forgive
—it is the most refined and generous pitch of virtue human nature can arrive at.—Sterne.

Homer's Fate Warning to Poets.

The greatest poet that ever lived was a blind beggar, yet when he died seven cities fought for the custody of his poor, old, weary bones.

Tempting.

If an apple dumpling doesn't want to be eaten, why does it smear itself all over with that delicious sauce and sit there smitten up at you with a look of paradise upon its cherubic face?—Baltimore Sun.

Good Advice.

The man who doesn't worry when he ought to is as bad as the one who worries when he shouldn't. Worrying is bad for the health, but probably not as bad as letting things drift. In case of rain, run for an umbrella. Instead of saying "Don't Worry" the best advice to give a man in trouble is "Get Busy."—Thrift Magazine.

His Preference.

Alvina had always longed for a dog.
One day the nurse announced that if he would pray for it, God might send him a brother or a sister very soon.
That night the nurse overheard him saying his prayers. He ended with:
"Dear God, I would like a brother or a sister, but if it's just the same to you, I'd just rather have a dog."

Washing Feet People's Feet.

The custom of washing the feet of the poor on Maundy Thursday at Whitehall was observed by English sovereigns until the end of the seventeenth century. After that the ceremony was performed on their behalf by the Archbishops of York until the middle of the eighteenth century.

Labour-Saving Penholder.

To conserve his time a man whose monthly duty it is to sign 100,000 salary checks for a railway company employed a multiple penholder that permits his signature to be written five times in one operation. The apparatus, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, differs from some others in that the fountain pens are clamped to a revolving rack that is mounted in a scrutable box resembling a suitcase.
The cover, when opened that on the back top, holds a frame in which the pens are placed for signing.

"Gusher's" Day Never Long.

There is a certain class of people with whom the gushing person will get a hearing, but this is merely because that particular class enjoys flattery, an art in which the gusher is particularly skillful. But, taken on the whole, human nature appreciates frankness and sincerity. And these two qualities give to the eye an expression which is not to be overlooked in the seeker after beauty.

Caught On to Sailors' Trick.

If a man's hat blew overhead while heaving port many British shippers would turn back and debly sailing until the next day. It was an omen that one of the crew would be lost over the side during the trip. This sign, however, became discredited, as wily deckhands, desirous of another day ashore with their wives and families, contrived the habit of going aloft and assisting the wind to forecast disaster.

PUBLIC SALE

Trusting that you may profit at our Annual Clearance Sale of Auto Tires. Great Annual Clearance Sale of Auto Tires.

We have made it a rule to close out our entire stock of tires every fall in order that we may start the new year with an entire new stock. What we now have is comparatively new stock but in order to start the "new year right" we are offering the full line of tires at a very low price—one that you cannot afford to overlook. If you do not need them you can buy them and put them away until you do need them.

For the past two years we have tested every nationally advertised tire and we find that the Goodrich 31 by 3-34, which is especially made for the rear wheels of a Ford, will give much more mileage than any other brand. We have given the United States Knobby and the Kelly-Springfield non-skid a fair trial and know just what they will do; and the Goodrich for the past two years has been exceedingly good. We will sell you just what you want at the lowest prices.

In this sale we are offering Havaline Oil in five gallon lots for $2.40, cans included, for $3.00.

We carry a full line of Ford stock at very popular prices, and have a large stock of Champion X Spark Plugs that we are offering in this sale for 55c; Porcelains 30c; Columbia Batteries No. 6, 35c; Tire Patches $1 values, for 75c, 50c, 40c, Cotter Keys 10c box; Bulb Dimmers at cost $1. All other dimmers ten per cent discount. The "cant-alip Ford Foot pads, 50c; Auto Chains ten per cent discount; Ford Radiator Covers at bargain price. Also the anti-freeze at a discount.

Bear in mind that we sell "That Good Gulf Gasoline," also Standard, Monticello and Indian.

District Residents Disfranchised.
Residents of the district of Columbia never had the right to vote therein for national officials, which would include the president, or on other matters of national concern, after the territory embraced in the district was ceded to the United States and became the seat of the general government.

Wild Canaries Not Yellow.
Canaries on their native islands are found in great flocks—striped greenish birds, by no means resembling in color our cage canaries. The yellow canary is a result of selective breeding, and the same may be said, of course, of other cage varieties, such as the hump-backed Belgian canary and the "lizard" canary of curious feather-pattern.

Gray Copper.
The work of a Swiss investigator suggests that absolutely pure copper may have a light-gray color like that of most other metals, since it is found that copper which has been ten times distilled in vacuo has only a pale rose color, while the yellow color of gold becomes much lighter under similar treatment.

Cruelty to Actors.
"Your only applause," quoth a star of the movies, "is the click of the camera." Obviously, an instance of cruelty to actors. Invention should come to the rescue and equip every movie studio with an applause machine, consisting of a pair of cast-iron hands and an endless string of percussion caps.—Film Fun.

Obituary.

The announcement of the death of Mr. J. H. Smith who died suddenly while returning from Lexington, last Monday night, with a party of friends, brought much regret and sorrow to his many friends and relatives. Mr. Smith had spent his entire life in Garrard county and was a kind and upright man and will be greatly missed from the community in which he lived.

Had he lived until the 17th of April, he would have been 71 years of age. He is survived by six children, John L. Craig, Mrs. Butler Sutton, Mrs. Lynn Clark, Mrs. Herman Hoover, of Troy, Ohio and James H. Smith, Jr., who is now in France, serving in the American Expeditionary Forces. Mr. Smith was ever ready to help his friends in time of need or trouble and numbered his friends by his acquaintances. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family in the loss of their dear father, their mother having died many years ago. He is gone but not forgotten.

Never shall his memory fade. Sweeter thoughts shall ever linger Around the grave where he is laid.

Obituary

After a heroic and patient struggle with a long period of illness, Mr. Porter Wearren died at his home at McCreary, Ky., November 3rd, 1918. Those left to suffer and mourn his loss are his devoted wife and five children, three brothers, Clarence, Wearren, of Pennsylvania, Brutus and Orus Wearren of Garrard county, two sisters, Minnie Wearren of Louisville and Mrs. Rosa Peele, of Illinois.

Mr. Wearren was a well known citizen of Garrard county and a member of the Baptist church at Buckeye. His body was placed in the Lancaster Cemetery. His many friends join the bereaved ones in mourning his loss. The burden is lifted and the dark clouds of sorrow turn their silver linings when we reflect that Mr. Wearren passed out conscious of the presence and protection of Christ.

Two weeks before his death he earnestly sought reconciliation with his God. By the skillful direction of Mr. N. L. Prewitt, who sat by the bedside and read the Gospel promises to him, was able to see the way. Upon the immediate acceptance of the promises and a personal trust in Christ as his savior, he began to praise God for the Eternal Hope and continued to praise Him until the liveries of heaven were summoned to wait him home to heaven.

"God moves in mysterious ways His wonders to perform." May the same gracious Jehovah who saved Bro. Wearren, comfort the hearts and lift the burdens of the bereaved ones in their hours of trials. "I know not where His Islands lift Their fringed palms in air, I only know I can not drift Beyond His love and care." (Rev.) D. F. Sebastian.

Advertising for Soul Mates In Germany.

Marital ardor has been supplanted by martial zeal in Germany. This evidenced by the advertising columns of German newspapers received here. Matrimonial ads cover whole pages and are inserted by people of all ages and walks of life.

A peculiar feature of these advertisements is that many make appeals for husbands or wives for relatives. Parents, brothers, sisters and even friends of those who seek mates invite correspondence from those matrimonially inclined. War invalids, wealthy physicians, manufacturers and rich widows are among those who resort to publicity.

One advertiser says he is a widower who has property amounting to several million marks. He admits he is 58 years old, but says he "looks younger." A physician who has an annual income of 100,000 marks seeks to arrange a meeting with "a beautiful, stately woman, object matrimony."

The money raised from the sale of this stock will continue to be used, as it has been, in the past, in the development and expansion of the company's properties. Over $250,000.00 of capital raised from the sale of stock has been invested in properties and equipment in the twelve months of the company's existence. Its outstanding position today as the leader among the independent oil companies operating in Kentucky may be ascribed to following this policy of expansion. Results accomplished to date are but a forerunner of those which may be expected to ensue from the further development of the company's considerably valuable holdings, and expansion in the field of its operations through increasing the size of its refining plant, now operating, and the purchase of additional producing properties. In view of progress to date "McCombs" stock at $2.00 per share is an extremely attractive investment opportunity with the probabilities of unlimited enhancement in value.

That splendid paper the Berea Citizen, last week carried a supplement, a memorial page to the memory of young Lieutenant Frost who went down with the U. S. transport, Ticonderoga, which will be remembered was sunk by a German submarine September 30th. The Ticonderoga was heavily loaded with horses and besides had 125 men under Frost's command. One of the first shots killed Lieut Frost. Most of the soldiers were gotten into life boats; this should have saved them for by the laws of civilized warfare, men in unarmed boats above others have the right to surrender and be paroled. But the German brute commander had the men and boats shot to pieces with shrapnel at short range. One boat was commanded to approach and tied to the submarine so it would be sunk when it submerged, but the rope and this boat load drifted for four days, when they were picked up in a starved condition and live to tell the tale of this German atrocity and brute force.

The slogan of the Spanish American war was "Remember the Maine" but each section of our country has something to remember against the Germans and Berea will always remember the Ticonderoga.

At first thought we feel that destiny has failed to carry out the eternal fitness of things, when she allows death to claim a soldier except on the battle field, but Lieut. Frost's real heart throbs are revealed in letters he wrote to his mother while in college at Yale and also in training camps. When he first enlisted he wrote her from Yale; "enlistment will, of course render me liable to call for service at any time. If there is need I will not be sorry to go. My regret would be much greater, if the need should find me unprepared or unwilling to go." When General Pershing paused at the tomb in France, held sacred by every American and breathed the immortal words: "Lafayette, we Americans are with you", he included Cleveland Frost, whose soul was fired with patriotism and a desire to help the down-trodden.

"In Flanders field the poppies blow" but all over this broad land of ours the fields are white with a new harvest, the mystic flowers of Sacrifice and in this hour of Victory, we have brought back to us the spirits of all our brave boys, who died that others might live in peace.

Get Out of the Rut Occasionally.
There is sometimes no harm, and often a bucketful of joy, in just being real foolish for a spell. And many a time it loosens up the strings of the heart to be extravagant, even. Like the country boy at the circus who said: "I've got 15 cents, and I'm going to spend it all on peanuts, and I don't give a darn who knows it, nuther."

Opportunity to Be Seized.
A porter in London was engaged in cleaning a luggage van, when the door swung back, striking him violently on the head. "Oh! Pat," he exclaimed to an Irishman standing on the platform, "I believe I've cut open my head." "Well, begor, now's the time to get something into it," was Pat's witty reply.

Advice Soldiers Need Not Take.
Sergeant, the French for which is sergeant, the Italian sergeant, comes from the medieval Latin word sergens, meaning a servant, a vassal, or a vassal soldier who seems to have acted as an orderly or striker. Tell this to your sergeant some warm day when he criticizes your appearance on parade in his coarse, unfeeling manner. It will soften him. It may even melt him.—New York Evening Post.

Grecian Building Materials.
Brick is the most common kind of building material in Saloniki and in all New Greece. Wooden structures are rare, on account of the shortage of timber. Stone is little used, except for underground walls and foundations. Ordinary walls are built with both plain and hollow bricks. The former, being more solid, are generally used for the building of lower stories, while hollow bricks are commonly employed in the upper stages. The principal kind of roofing used is made of flat tiling.

- (2) Foley Kidney Pills, for overworked and disordered kidneys, bladder ailments, pain in sides and back due to kidney trouble, sore muscles, stiff joints, backache and rheumatism.
- (3) Foley Cathartic Tablets, a wholesome and thoroughly cleansing cathartic. You can try these three family remedies for only 5c.

THE WESTERN FRONT AT HOME

Earn and give. For a year the young people of America have been coached in thrift. Instead of the old problem in the arithmetic book, "If Mary's mother gave her three apples, Jane gave her two, and she ate one, how many would she have?" the third grade girl is now sent to the blackboard to solve, "How many Thrift stamps at 25 cents apiece will Mary own at the end of 12 months if she saves 10 cents a week?"

The girl in the grade above her is learning in her arithmetic lesson how many Thrift stamps it takes to buy the yarn for 500 helmets for the soldiers in France. Still farther on the eighth grader is told to figure in terms of War Savings stamps how much it costs to supply a regiment of Uncle Sam's men with shelter tents.

And now the Earn and Give club of the younger girls of the Young Women's Christian association is organized to turn those Thrift lessons into giving. The children of America have been turning in pennies and nickels and pasting a green stamp on their Thrift card. The Earn and Give club can now use some of those cards and War Savings stamps in their campaign among the younger people for the united war fund.

This fall when the war council of the Y. W. C. A. made plans for the 1918 war drive, it included in its program the rule that no young girls under eighteen can do any soliciting, on the streets or otherwise. They can give, but they can only give by earning. Consequently in order to co-ordinate the efforts of the girls in all the districts over the country, the Earn and Give club is enrolling members and has given out an estimate of $5 apiece to be earned for the war fund campaign by the American girls who still count their age in teens. Five dollars apiece from the younger girls of the country will mean that the nation as a whole will fill its charitable organizations' war chest.

Some high school girls in New York city are going to earn her $5 by shining her own shoes instead of stopping at the Greek stand on her way to school and by making her own sandwiches for her noon lunch. Out in Iowa the girl who has been spending 15 cents plus war tax for a movie three nights a week is going to draw a line through the movie habit except when there is an especially good bill. More than one girl plans to clean all her own gloves this winter and to salvage all the paper and collections of junk about the house which should be sold to the junk man to be worked over into some productive industry. The girls in their teens are going to earn instead of ask others for the money. They are to sacrifice and give in their own names and older women will make the public requests for money elsewhere.

Many of the girls who are waiting to join the Earn and Give club are already Patriotic leaguers, and they have learned several practical lessons in the thrift that will make them effective members of the new club by their conservation of fruits and vegetables. They have canned and pickled. Now when the end of summer brings the beginning of school they will change their thrift into winter thrift and begin saving their $5 for the Y. W. C. A. war fund.

"Wherever You Are Is the Western Front" is the slogan which the Earn and Give club has adopted. Anna, one very thirteen-year-old daughter of New York's East side, who was one of the first and youngest members to join the campaign at a New York settlement house, had to have it explained to her that instead of western front meaning fight and fight meaning fists, the western front means work and work means save in order to give.

The girl who joins the Earn and Give club will discover that in conjunction with her working and saving in order that her club will furnish its quota of the money that is going to help the girls like herself in France and Belgium, she will also find numerous ways in the community to help the war that she had never dreamed of. She will see that all the fruit pits and stones that can be saved from her own dining table and from those of her neighbors, are dropped into the little red barrel at the corner, in order that the carbon which the seeds contain can be used in making charcoal for the American soldiers' gas masks. She will save all the tin foil that she sees for the Red Cross. She will help collect clothing for the French and Belgian orphans and perhaps send them some of her own.

School girls in India, children from squalid, dingy homes, with absolutely no spending money, gave last year to Belgian and Armenian relief when they themselves were not getting enough to eat. They gave up their meat once a week for the Belgians, though they only had it twice a week themselves, and for the Armenians they set aside the handful of fresh grain that otherwise each girl would have ground in her own little stone mill. Both contributions, from all the girls in one missionary's school, amounted only to $5 a month. "But it was a tremendous sacrifice," their teacher writes, "although a joyous one. It actually meant less bread each day, and once a week a meal of dry bread and water. This was done by 80 girls from the meanest homes in the world—children between the ages of five and fifteen."

Four hundred thousand girls in 47 states have become Patriotic Leaguers since America declared war. If as many school girls and working girls from all classes pledge to earn and give, the united war fund campaigners will have $2,000,000 of their $170,500,000.

Patriotic Air Roused Her.
A Quinley girl returned from a dance recently at about 3 a. m. and could not be awakened for work. The alarm clock had no effect, nor did repeated calls from members of the family. Her little brother tooted the reveille, but the girl was no soldier. Finally "The Star-Spangled Banner" was played, and to that the patriotic girl immediately responded.—Boston Globe.

Daily Thought.
The great man is he who does not lose his child's heart—Mencius.

Optimistic Thought.
We must calculate not on the weather, nor on fortune, but upon God and ourselves.

Products of Cashew Tree.
Besides the nuts used in confectionery the Indian cashew tree yields an insect-repelling gum, a juice that makes indelible ink, and three kinds of oil, one edible, the others used to tan fishing nets and preserve wood.

Would Return It.
It was a very hot day and the kind hearted leeman had given a little girl a piece of ice. A newsboy asked her for it, but she refused to give it up. "Aw shucks!" said the boy. "I'll give it back to you—I only want the juice out of it."—Boston Transcript.

Speed of Bullet.
A rifle bullet covers about two miles in five seconds, while sound travels the same distance in a shade more than nine and one-half seconds, so it is easy to understand why the bullet strikes before the report of the rifle is heard.

Brazil Now Coffee Center.
Arabia formerly supplied the world with coffee; later the West Indies and then Java took the lead, to be supplanted in turn by Brazil, which now produces about three-quarters of the world's supply and controls the market.

Protection From Live Wires.
For the sure protection of linemen handling live wires a pair of gloves inside and one outside of the rubber gloves have been recommended. The woven fabric inside glove takes up perspiration and shields the rubber from the finger nails and a leather gauntlet over the rubber glove protects from outside mechanical injury, aids in grasping tools and keeps the hands warm in winter.

Defective Camouflage.
"Teacher" had gone to the movies with a bachelor who chose young as associates as a sort of camouflage for his own age. The next morning she received the following greeting from one of her pupils: "Oh, teacher, I saw you at the show last night. Was that your papa with you?"

Destructive Civil War.
Civil war in England lasted from 1642 to 1660—eighteen years—being contemporaneous part of the time with the Thirty Years war, which divided all Germany into two opposing camps. It found the empire with a population of 16,000,000, and left it with less than 5,000,000.

When Soft Answer Doesn't "Go."
A soft answer turns away wrath except when little Willie's schoolteacher asks Willie what he has in his desk that is causing so much amusement and little Willie's answer is so soft the teacher doesn't understand the first time. There is very little wrath turned away in this case.

Source of Republic's Strength.
Government in a well-constituted republic requires no belief from man beyond what his reason authorizes. He sees the rationale of the whole system its origin and its operations, and, as it is best supported when best understood, the human faculties act with boldness and acquire, under this form of government, a gigantic manliness.—Thomas Paine.

Hemp Tree's Many Products.
The hemp tree is one of the most versatile plants in the world. From it comes, besides rope and wrapping paper, the drug hashish, called by its devotees "the joyous," obtained by boiling the leaves and flowers with fresh butter; a valuable vegetable oil, a cake used by the farmers for their stock, and the finer varieties are used for cloth, coarse laces and braids. A great deal of the seed is exported for canary seed.

Just What He Had Done.
Charlie, trying to amuse himself as best he could, came out of the garage dragging an old cobwebby umbrella, which after much exertion he was able to open over his head. His grandmother, coming to the door, called out, "Charlie, you put that umbrella right up this minute." Charlie piped back, "I have dot it up and I see doin for a walk."

Japanese Taught to Repress Emotion.
Until late years the repression of any appearance of strong emotion was carefully drilled into the mind and life of every Japanese child of the better class. There is much more freedom now than formerly, but the influence of past training is seen everywhere—in art, in literature, on the stage and in the customs of daily life. Artists paint the autumn moon, which every Japanese adores, but he wraps the brilliant disk within a veil of cloud.

Gift Brought Punishment.
A young woman employed in the office of a Kobe shipping house received from her millionaire employer a sum of money as a present on New Year's day. The girl took her fat wad of notes home. She was promptly thrashed by her mother for stealing them and dragged to the office to apologize for the theft. Explanations were made, but when they got home she was admonished once more for not stating her case more clearly.—Japan Chronicle.

Japanese Conjugal Etiquette.
When American people judge the degree of affection between a Japanese husband and wife by their conduct to each other they make a great mistake. It would be as bad form for a man to express approval of his wife or children as it would be for him to praise any other part of himself, and every wife takes a pride in conducting herself according to the rigid rules of etiquette, which recognize dignity and humility as the virtues that reflect greatest glory on the home of which she is mistress.

To Conserve Firewood.
In burning wood in a furnace built for coal the firebox should first be lined with firebrick or sheet iron, so as to check the draft, otherwise, the wood will burn too rapidly.

Grab's Keen Watch for Enemies.
The fiddler crabs of the Philippines have remarkably sharp eyes, and may be seen standing for perhaps fifteen minutes at a time quite still, scanning the landscape for signs of their chief enemies—snakes, skunks, frogs, toads and fishes. Noise will not disturb them, but they beat a hasty retreat home if anything moves near, or boldly stand and frantically wave the big claw, being particularly angry if a lady crab comes near.

Historic Island.
Blennerhassett's Island is a small island in the Ohio river about two miles below Parkersburg, W. Va., which figures in history. It gets its name from having been once owned by Hiram Blennerhassett, a wealthy Englishman, who built a fine residence on it. While living there he became financially involved in Aaron Burr's visionary and treacherous schemes and they proved his ruin.

Don't Prod Your Liver to Action

MR Overcomes Biliousness, Constipation, Sick Headache, Quickly. No Griping or Pain. Guaranteed.

The organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination—the stomach, liver and bowels—are closely allied, and the proper action of any of these organs is largely dependent upon the correct functioning of all the others. "Whipping" your liver into action with calomel or forcing your bowels with irritating laxatives or strong cathartics is a great mistake. A better, safer plan is strengthening and toning the whole digestive and eliminative system with Nature's Remedy (NIT Tablets), which not only brings immediate relief, but genuine and lasting benefit. It acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys, improves digestion and assimilation, overcomes biliousness, corrects constipation and quickly relieves sick headache.

Get your system thoroughly cleansed and purified for once; stomach, liver and bowels working together in vigorous harmony, and you will not have to take medicine every day—just take one NIT Tablet occasionally to keep your system in good condition and always feel your best. Remember it is easier and cheaper to keep well than it is to get well.

Get a 25c box and try it with the understanding that it must give you greater relief and benefit than any bowel or liver medicine you ever used or no pay. Nature's Remedy (NIT Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

LAID PLANS

By JACK LAWTON.

As far back as she could remember, Laurel had known of the enmity existing between her father's family and that of their neighbor farther down the road. It was Laurel's mother who had told her the tale of her grandfather's crime.

"It was best," she had said, "that the child should learn of it from her own." Laurel had longed to make the mountain neighbor's child her companion, life was lonely among the hills. So Laurel's mother had explained why this could not be.

She had listened in frightened horror. Her grandfather was a murderer. That was the fact in all its brutal plainness, as her mother told it. Grandfather had killed the man who would be this mountain child's grandfather. His crime had been vindicated because the deed was considered one of self-defense.

But the grandfather had sought no such excuse. "Murder," he said, was in his heart at the time. "The man had told a cruel lie to the woman he loved, breaking the engagement between them. On the narrow mountain trail he had met and accused the victim, and when they had struggled in anger it had ended in the fall of the man to his death below."

Self-confessed, Laurel's grandfather was a murderer, and the shadow lingered on those who followed. Reconciled, he had married his sweetheart, but the enmity between the two families concerned remained a thing of reality.

When Laurel's own saddened mother had gone forever from the mountain home, it was at her wish that her daughter be sent away to school, and to learn what the great outer world might hold. Now, in all the sweetness of a mountain summer, Laurel had come back again, to be with her father.

It was in the weather-beaten church on Sabbath that she raised her eyes from her singing book, to meet those of a stranger. From the outer world he, too, had come back to the primitive. Like her's, his own eyes had widened in question, "How come you here?" asked the stranger's eyes. "And who," flashed Laurel's, "are you?"

After service both were answered. "That," said her father, in a tone of constraint, "is the last of the Wiltons, from down the road. He's been away for years, studying, they say, an' getting rich."

On the following morning, she met the man of the questioning gaze on a narrow mountain trail. His pronounced avoidance of her proclaimed that the last of the Wiltons still bore aversion to the granddaughter of a murderer.

Laurel's soft eyes clouded, but she felt no resentment.

The next day Laurel took a different path, hoping to avoid the man's displeasure at sight of her, and as Dan Wilton had started out with the same purpose, the two came again face to face in the roadway. Laurel's impulsive smile met his frown. And as he looked down upon her again in "meeting" Laurel fancied that the neighbor's eyes wore a kinder light, as though against his own will he were acting a part. She found it impossible to banish his face from her thoughts.

Grieved, yet wondering why it should so grieve her, Laurel decided to confine her walks to the wood; there, fatefully, she met him. He stood for a moment, watching the sunlight filtering down on her face, then spoke: "You must not think," he said slowly, "that my avoidance of you has been evidence of the foolish enmity of my family. You will find it as difficult to believe the truth as I—find it myself."

"I love you," said Dan Wilton. "I have loved you from the moment I looked into your eyes; 'but,' he laughed harshly, 'there is no use. I cannot reconcile that past stain in the blood.'"

Laurel's lip trembled; it did not occur to her to resent his self-confidence, to tell him that her own heart was not for the winning.

"We must not meet again," she said. "I always will take the upper path to town, you the lower. When I come to the wood, I shall leave always before four; it is a dark stain; I am sorry, and I understand."

Longing eyes followed her up the trail. She forgot as she determinedly kept to her stated routine, that the best-laid plans have been known to "gang aglee."

Dan Wilton had forsaken the meeting house. He realized that he must resort to more rigid measures if he would keep from seeing the girl he loved. He must go away, and after four o'clock, therefore, through the silent wood he walked, fighting his fight.

True to her promise Laurel had left the eloquent spot of fir and pine. But on her homeward way she paused concerned. Her wrist watch was gone; she must have dropped it in the wood. Hastily she retraced her steps, absorbed in searching. So it was that face downward bent, Laurel passed—straight into Dan Wilton's arms.

"You come," he murmured, "in answer to the call of my heart. I cannot live without you, Laurel; it was a foolish fight. Love is strong enough to blot out any stain. Dearest, can you forgive me, and come?"

And when at last Laurel raised her radiant face from her lover's shoulder, her forgotten little watch lay glinting at her from the grass.

CINDERELLA'S HEEL

By GRACE WEATHERBY

Margie wanted a pair of white pumps. That was how it all started. This summer, the girls in the office wore white a good deal, and Margie wanted a pair of the dainty white pumps to match her new white linen dress. She took a few of her cherished dollars, and bought the coveted shoes.

The next morning, arrayed in spotless white, she entered the office, and went to her desk. A feeling of suppressed excitement was in the air, and Margie presently asked one of the girls what it was all about.

"Do you mean to tell me you haven't heard," asked Ruth. "Well, it is this. The senior partner's son, Bob Eastman, has just finished college, and he is to join the firm as a third partner. They say he is a fine fellow. He comes today. Say, but your dress is pretty."

In the dull office this was indeed a piece of news. Margie was glad she had worn her new clothes. "I wonder what he is like," she mused. The morning seemed unusually long, and the new partner had not come. By afternoon the girls were fretful, and very much disappointed. At five o'clock, Ruth closed her desk, put on her hat and went down to the street. There, she gave a little gasp of dismay. The streets had just been sprinkled and everywhere were little puddles of muddy water.

"Oh, my poor little slippers, they will get all dirty!" she sighed. She could not stand on the sidewalk till they dried, so she began to cross the busy street, stepping gingerly to avoid the puddles.

The traffic was very thick that afternoon, and as Margie dodged a truck, she would very nearly run into a trolley. Suddenly, her slender French heel caught in the hole of a water drain, and stuck there. She tugged at it in vain, but couldn't budge it. Tears of vexation came to her eyes, blurring her sight. The trucks became one mass, and as she stood there, tugging and pulling, a strong hand was placed on her shoulder.

"Step out of your shoe," the man commanded tersely. Margie did as she was told, and held her foot in the air, so as to prevent soiling her stocking. She laid her hand on the broad back bending beside her, to steady her. The stranger gave one vigorous pull, and the slipper was loose, but the heel had come off. It was a pitiable sight now. The once spotless white pump was now heelless and very dirty. Margie gazed blankly at her ruined shoe, and then at the stranger. All he said was one little word, but that one had a world of meaning in it. "This was no time for thought, however, and the stranger realized it. He assisted Margie to the pavement, and hailed a passing taxi and put her into it. There was no help for it, and Margie made the best of a bad business. The gruff stranger was really very kind. She tucked her shoeless foot up under her skirt, and leaned back on the cushions. Then, guided by an impulse, she told the man about the new partner, and how the shoes meant so much to her. "Oh, I say," he began awkwardly, "lets go to Camer's, and get a new pair."

"Thank you, no," replied Margie, primly. "It isn't at all necessary, and I couldn't think of letting you." She remained firm in her decision, and all he could say did not move her.

When they reached her door, the stranger helped Margie up the steps and rang the bell for her. Suddenly, he spoke to her in a low tone.

"Good-by, Cinderella. I am going to keep this slipper of yours." He put the ruined shoe, mud and all, into his pocket, and lifting his hat, ran quietly down the steps and hurried away.

The next morning the fat landlady discovered an oblong box on the steps. It was addressed to "Miss Cinderella," and Margie blushing told her that she had a friend who called her by that name. It contained a pair of the daintiest white slippers that ever a girl had. There was a little note inside which read: "Forgive me, Cinderella, but I couldn't help it."

Margie wore the new slippers to the office that morning. At eleven o'clock the door marked "Private" opened, and old Mr. Eastman walked into the office followed by his son. Margie uttered a little cry of surprise. It was her stranger friend. As he was introduced to her, he surprised his father by saying:

"Miss Kingston and I have met before. Good morning, Cinderella, how are the little slippers today?"

A few months later Margie sent in her resignation, and a flashing diamond on her left hand explained her action. On her wedding morning she stood before her mirror and gazed at her reflection. She was all in white, from the tip of her white traveling hat to the toes of her white pumps. An automobile horn sounded outside her window, and with a fluttering heart, she went down.

As she settled down in the car, Bob leaned over to her, and with mock seriousness inquired, "Are your heels all on, Cinderella?"

Hoover's Favorite.

Flatbush—Do you suppose Hoover has any pets?

Bensonhurst—Oh, I guess so. I believe a condor is his favorite.

"A condor for a pet?"

"Why, yes. You know a condor can exist without food for 40 days."

FARM SALE

543-ACRES-543

The best Land in Shelby County, located right in the heart of the famous Mulberry neighborhood. The place where you have never been able to buy any land before. We are selling for the heirs of the late W. L. Brown, deceased, of Shelby County, Kentucky, his magnificent estate of 543 acres of as good land as there is in the State.

PUBLIC AUCTION

On the farm which lies right at Mulberry Church, 5 miles from Shelbyville, two miles from Christianburg, one-half mile from L. & N. Station, and a brand new brick school right on the farm.

Tuesday, Dec. 3rd, 1918

AT 11 O'CLOCK, SHARP.

WE HAVE CUT THIS ENTIRE ESTATE INTO

5 FARMS

Each being a COMPLETE FARM with improvements to itself, except one which is unimproved

5 FARMS

This land is by far the most desirable that can be bought in this County, in fact we have sold about one hundred farms in the past year and this is the first that we have been able to get to sell in this neighborhood, and would not have been able to sell this at any price except for the fact that there are seven heirs and it must be sold so that a settlement can be made among them. The land is all well improved and will raise anything you plant on it, practically every bit of it being hemp and tobacco land. With farm products as high as they are and bound to stay, this is the time to buy a farm, and we know of no better land to be had as we will sell at this time.

FARM No. 1, 197 ACRES—Is the original home place with the magnificent modern country home of 9 rooms, bath, lights and hot water furnace. All modern conveniences, and is beautifully located, with all necessary outbuildings, good four room tenant house, tobacco barn, one of the finest dairy barns in the state, with good silos and a fine stock barn that will take care of all the cattle and mules you would want to feed. This land is all good, with a woods of 25 acres of virgin walnut, something we have not seen for a long time. If you want a grand country home that is ideal in every way, buy this.

FARM No. 2, 61 1-2 ACRES—Joins farm No. 1, faces right on the Christiansburg pike, is unimproved, and we do not know of a better piece of land anywhere.

FARM No. 3, 59 1-2 ACRES—Good five room frame house store room, blacksmith shop, three room tenant house, good barn and necessary outbuildings and good orchard. A fine piece of land and an ideal location.

FARM No. 4, 58 ACRES—with good four room tenant house right up against the school, located on the Mulberry Pike, and a crackerjack piece of land. If you want a good small farm buy this one.

FARM No. 5, 167 ACRES—Fine five room frame house, good dairy room, two good tobacco and stock barns, all necessary outbuildings, located next to farm No. 4 on Mulberry Pike, and all good land. We do not know of a better one to buy than this one. It will make an ideal home and will grow anything you want to grow on it.

One clause in our contract reads:—"It is especially understood and agreed by all parties concerned that this land is to be sold absolutely without reserve or by-bid and that the highest bid received is to be accepted."

THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY!

Don't be a "Wish I Had." Real estate has been advancing in price for the past fifty years, with prospects better for it to continue. Think of the real estate you should have bought, you hesitated, the other fellow bought and he got the profit that should have been yours. OBEY THAT IMPULSE.

WHY BE A RENTER? Why rent and give the other man half of your energy when all should be yours? You can't go wrong buying good farm land.

DINNER WILL BE SERVED FREE TO ALL.

TERMS EASY—Will be made known on day of sale.

Anyone desiring to inspect these farms before day of sale, will find one of us on the farm or we will meet you in Shelbyville or Christianburg if you will write. Automobiles Will Meet Trains at Shelbyville and Christianburg on Day of Sale.

OUR CONTRACT SAYS TO SELL.

De hymn tells you 'bout bein' "it heaven a thousand years," but dar's some folks what couldn't stand siet long-time prosperity.—Atlanta Const tution.

"Colonel" Is a Column Leader.

The Spanish for colonel is coronel, the Italian colonello. The Spaniards originated the word 400 years ago and seem to have made it by combining the sense of the Latin columna, a column, with that of corona, a crown. We follow the French spelling, but in pronouncing we retain the Spanish "r," hence "kernel," as we say it. Literally it means the leader of a column or of the company at the head of the regiment in column.

All Sailors Superstitious.

All sailors are superstitious, but none is so completely under this influence as the old deep-sea fisherman. He puts the deepest faith in "signs" and omens of all kinds. Nothing would induce a skipper of the old school to sail on a Friday. One intrepid unbeliever who dared to leave the docks at Grimsby, England, on a Good Friday was hooted through the lock gates by the scandalized populace. In spite of thus challenging the fates, however, he returned safely with ship and crew.

Friendship's Obligations.

I must feel pride in my friend's accomplishments as if they were mine—and a property in his virtues.—Emerson.

Possibly Hadn't Been Introduced.

Arthur owned a bulldog that he had been teaching to hunt rats, and whenever he called out the word to him he would run frantically to various places to scratch. A neighboring woman was so amused at the performance that she wanted to show the dog's tricks to her son, but to her repeated call of "rats" the dog only stood and looked at her. "Oh," said Arthur coming up at this point, "he doesn't know your rats."

Poet Immortalized Hemp.

Longfellow has immortalized the uses of hemp in his famous poem. "The Ropewalk," in which he makes us see the rope made into a swing for two lovely maidens, the tightrope for the tired, spangled girl of the cheap street vaudeville show, the cord that the old bell ringer pulls when he rings the noonday hour; through his eyes we see the schoolboy flying his kite, the farmer's wife drawing a bucket of cool water from the well on the old homestead, and many other beautiful pictures.

What He Didn't Like About Helen.

Kenneth's little playmate, Helen, was to have a party. Only girls were to be invited, but Kenneth was unaware of this fact. He longed for an invitation and expected one up to the day of the party. But alas! the invitation didn't come. Downhearted, he said to his mother: "You know, mother, I like Helen awfully well, but I certainly don't like her ways."

Origins of Military Titles.

Commodore and commander are forms borrowed and corrupted from the Spanish comendador, a knight, a commander, or the superior of a monastery. The French have the word commandeur, the Italian comandatore. Commandant, however, meaning the officer of a fortified town's garrison, etc., comes from the medieval Latin commandator, a commander, and commandare, to command.

Surely Not Bump of Knowledge.

O'Brien met Flanagan and noticed he had a big lump on his forehead. "Hello," said O'Brien, "is that a bump of knowledge?" "Indeed, it's not," said Flanagan. "It's a bump of ignorance of knowing nothing about boxing."

FOR STUBBORN COUGHS AND COLDS

Dr. King's New Discovery has a fifty year record behind it

It built its reputation on its production of positive results, on its success in relieving the throat irritation of colds, coughs, grippe and bronchial attacks.

"Dr. King's New Discovery? Why, my folks wouldn't use anything else. That's the general nation-wide esteem in which this well-known remedy is held. Its action is prompt, its taste pleasant, its relief gratifying."

Half a century of cold and cough checking. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Bowels Out of Kilter?

That's nature calling for relief. Assist her in her daily duties with Dr. King's New Life Pills. Not a purgative in the usual dose, but a mild, effective, corrective, laxative that teases the bowels into action and chases "blues."

MANSE.

Miss Willie Mae and Wesley Calico are some better with the "flu."

Miss Mary Pennington has been very sick.

Mrs. A. T. Bowling has returned to her home after a three weeks stay in Cleveland.

Mr. Lewis Anderson was the guest of his mother, Mrs. W. P. Anderson on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Burdett Marshbanks from Illinois, have come to make their home here.

Mrs. Forest Centers and little daughter, were the guests of her mother, Mrs. G. W. Conn, Saturday.

Mrs. Hiram Fields was laid to rest in Manse cemetery on November 17th. She leaves to mourn her loss a devoted husband and two dear little babies.

Mr. Robert Anderson was the guest of his mother, Saturday night and Sunday.

First Camouflage

Artist Was Gideon.

That there is nothing new under the sun, not even camouflage, will be found by reading the seventh chapter of Judges 17th to 20th verses inclusive. When Gideon had his warriors conceal their lights in pitchers, then break them suddenly and rush against their foes amid a flare of brilliant light, he proved himself the first camouflage artist. Bullard, who held the Germans back thru an entire night had a predecessor in Joshua, the first man among nations to use the pall of night as a cover to battle. The development of Pershing into a mighty warrior might be that of David. While the Kaiser is a splendid likeness to that other puffed up champion, Goliath of Gath.

Of course the Germans thought we were not able to go against them, because we were young, had no military training, while they were men of war from their youth, but our David and his men have done all the David of old did but bring home the head of the Kaiser and if he gets in their way we may yet have it. No, human nature has not changed in all these centuries neither have we advanced as much as we think we have. The only thing, "If God be for us who can be against us?"

"Let Go." Once in a While.

Half the joy of life is in "letting go" every once in awhile, and, if you let go twice every once in awhile, it seems that you have just that much more fun

Fashions in Humor.

A lady once suggested "Alice in Wonderland" to a steady-going matron. The volume was soon returned with thanks and with the explanation that what was wanted was something "light," not all those puzzles. Unquestionably, there are fashions in humor.

Not Originally Military Title.

General, the noun, and the adjective general, the antonym of particular, go back to the Latin generalis, meaning belonging to a race or kind, and itself tracing to genus general, from gignere, to beget. Generals in Caesar's and Pompey's day had nothing to do with the army; the Roman general was an imperator. The title general primarily means an officer holding a general command.

Biblical Thrift.

The Scriptures give us many lessons in thrift. Ezekiel warned the children of Israel that during the siege of Jerusalem they would have to be thrifty. He said: "Take thou also unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof."—Ezekiel iv: 9. The Bible shows that Ezekiel ordered the children of Israel to eat their meat by weight, and even thus only "from time to time."—Thrift Magazine.

Tracing Use of Lightships.

The first lightship, the Nore, was established in England in 1732, at the mouth of the Thames. The first in this country was stationed in 1820 in Chesapeake Bay, off Willoughby Spit. Sandy Hook, now Ambrose, light vessel was established in 1823. A light vessel was placed off Cape Hatteras in 1824 and was driven ashore in 1827, and a ship was not established again in this dangerous position until 1897, after unsuccessful attempts had been made to build a lighthouse on Diamond Shoal.

THE BLUE TRIANGLE ON BABEL'S TOWER

Lucia pulled her shawl farther across her face and shrank down on the station platform bench as the solid blue figure suddenly bent down over her. Excitedly she shook her head in answer to the question that she could not understand. She searched through her red plaid waist for the paper that Tony had folded into a little square and given to her. The writing on it, in the English that Tony knew and she did not, told the house where she lived. Tony had explained it all to her that morning. He had told it to her again at the station. Then, waving his hat he had disappeared into the train with the rest of the men, and Lucia had been left standing outside the gate. There were crowds of women pushing all about her. They were weeping. So Lucia wept, too.

Lucia had been betrothed to Tony in the old country. Five years before, with a long ticket for New York pinned into his inside pocket, her lover had left her. He wrote in every letter that he had made her a home in the new country. Her dowry money had finally provided her own transportation, and for two months Tony and she had been married. Then he had drawn a ticket with a number on it, and this morning he had gone off to war.

To the policeman Lucia told all these things in rapid Italian. But the policeman only talked back to her as rapidly in a language that was not Italian. She followed him dumbly to headquarters. An hour later a woman wearing American clothes gently began talking to her in beautiful Italian.

Italian Lucia was only one of thousands of foreign-born women, Syrians, Italians, Armenians, Russians, Lithuanians, Polish, who, when the draft called their men folk to the American colors, asked in helpless confusion what it was all about. When would their men be back? What did people mean when they told them they would receive money through the mail? Where could they find work that they knew how to do? Was there no one who could explain it all to them in their own language?

The Y. W. C. A. was ready to offer assistance, but it would be of no value to offer it in English. Consequently it had to supply a corps of women who could talk to the foreign-born woman at her own door in the language that she was used to hearing in the home-land. To teach her English was as essential a factor in her Americanization as to find her a job. Therefore the war council of the Y. W. C. A. set out to find her English.

A year before the war began in Europe, the leaders of the Young Woman's Christian association foresaw just such a situation, and made ready to meet it. They studied the needs of the immigrant. They trained skilled American social workers to become familiar with the home habits and to speak the language of the Lett and the Hungarian and the Greek and the other foreign mothers who brought babies and bundles over from Ellis Island to Battery park.

The organization into which this experiment has developed was named by the Y. W. C. A. national board, "The International Institute for Young Women." In terms which these women can understand, it is teaching the foreign-born how to sew and cook and care for the baby.

boys are and how they are being treated; how they need home support and cheer, how to send them comforts, and to keep pace themselves by learning English and other things, so that when the boys come home they will not find their women still very un-American and out of sympathy with them.

Food conservation bulletins have been translated into 18 or 19 languages. At the factories and munition plants interpreters are available for the non-English speaking women by whom the real war industries of the country are being largely carried on. In 25 important cities International Institute Bureaus are training American and foreign women for full time social service work with foreigners. Twenty-four trained women are employed on the national and district field staff of the Y. W. C. A. On June 15 there were 105 trained women working at Americanization.

When more than 75,000 Chicago men filled out their blue cards for the September 12 draft, Gang Luo Wong appeared at one precinct bringing with him Mrs. Gang Wong and the three children. All five wished to register. The enrolling clerk explained, but the Gang Luo Wongs make many broken Chinese remonstrances before the master of the family was induced to sign a card without his wife. Mrs. Wong could not speak English. What would his family do in a strange country if Gang Luo went to war? All over the United States Chinese and Poles and Serbs were asking the same question. It is to just such needs that the War Council of the Y. W. C. A. is organized to give assistance.
